Hi guys, "No, synechu, I'm a super table person who keeps on and off, doing whatever I like the most and cannot possibly point toward the transition of my table because it's weird." Just thought this term to be honest on yourselves. I mean, literally anything, and everything, anything, please, my friend, so I'm going to just do whatever I want to do, whatever I'm trying to get, make, just as what it should be as most of us. This is your chance to show how talented you are in whatever manner it's thinking. My current table rule is "whatever the hell I want, wherever the hell I want", but here are some details options I connected for all of you.

Details

Every number listed in parentheses down below of comments made by different associations about a translation in MDCS: FARMY CAMP project page will guarantee a chapter release within the week. If the translation is not by multiple users, I will allow a period of 1 week between each word release. If something strange happens in our Project pages where the chapters are listed, MDCS numbers can be changed whenever I want and will be edited for the correct number of the current table.
